My First Bitcoin

The Next Evolution of the Bitcoin Diploma

Shorter. Clearer. More practical. Target: October 2026.

NotebookLM

Shifting the Focus from Density to Clarity

The Current Friction

- Long and dense pathway
- Beginner and advanced content mixed
- Activities embedded unevenly
- Educator support uneven
- Local adaptation unclear

The 2026 Flow

8-hour, 4-block pathway

Core, Custom, and Advanced separation

Dedicated Activity Bank

Educator Guide as facilitation engine

Educator-selected Custom block

NotebookLM

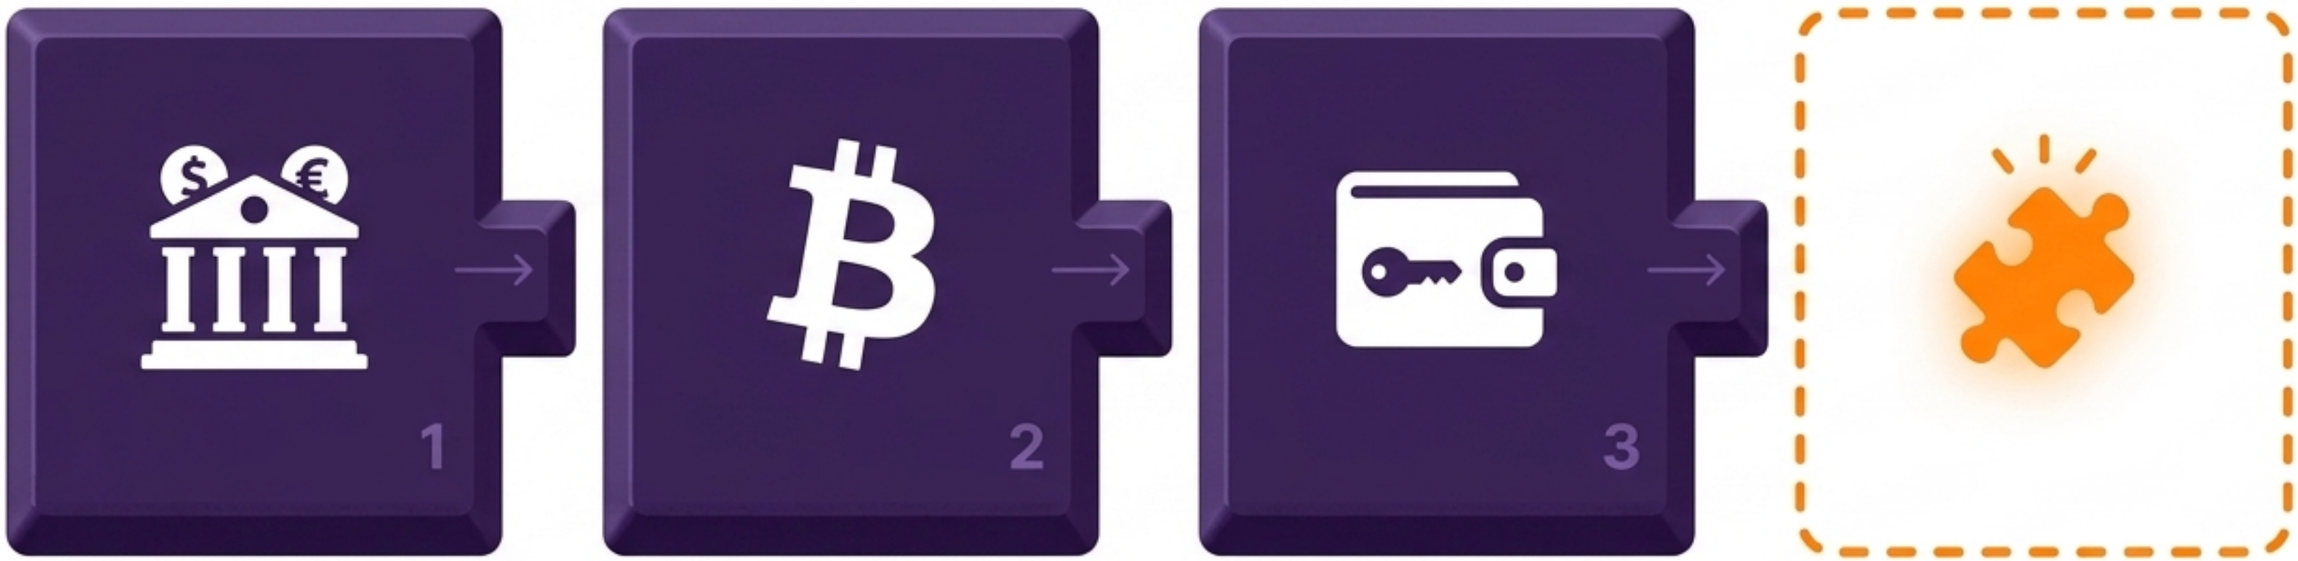

The Foundations Remain Unchanged

The redesign changes the learning experience, not the mission.

NotebookLM

The 8-Hour Learning Architecture

Problem / Fiat

(Why money exists, inflation, fiat mechanics)

Solution / Bitcoin

(Decentralization, finite supply, proof of work)

Action / Self-Custody

(Wallets, keys, receiving/sending, safety)

Custom / Bitcoin as Money

(Educator-selected local applications)

NotebookLM

Educators Complete the Local Story

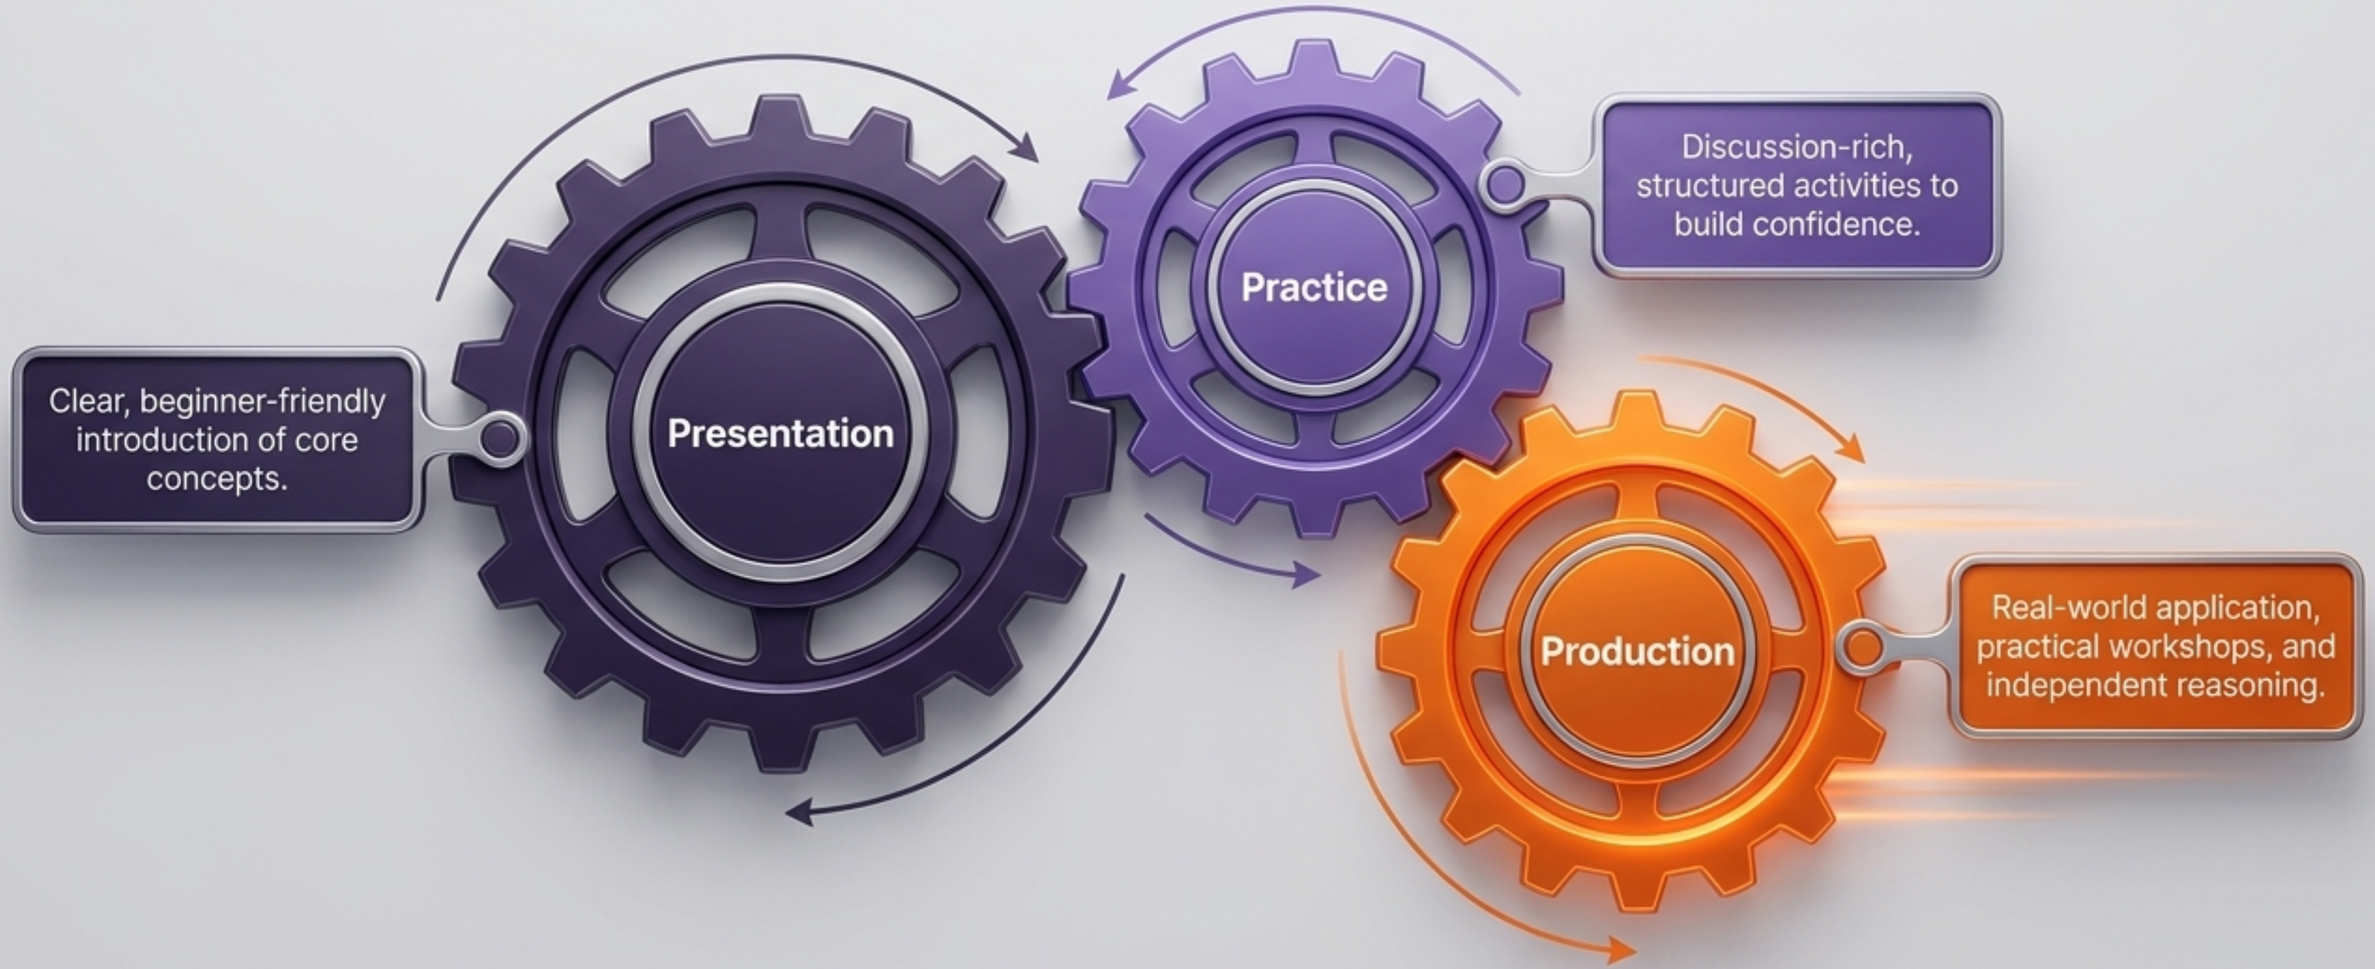

Block 4 is selected by educators because they know their communities best.

Structuring Practical Learning

NotebookLM

Moving to a Learning Ecosystem

Student Book
Focused purely on understanding and key concepts.

Activity Bank
Dedicated engine for participation and practical review.

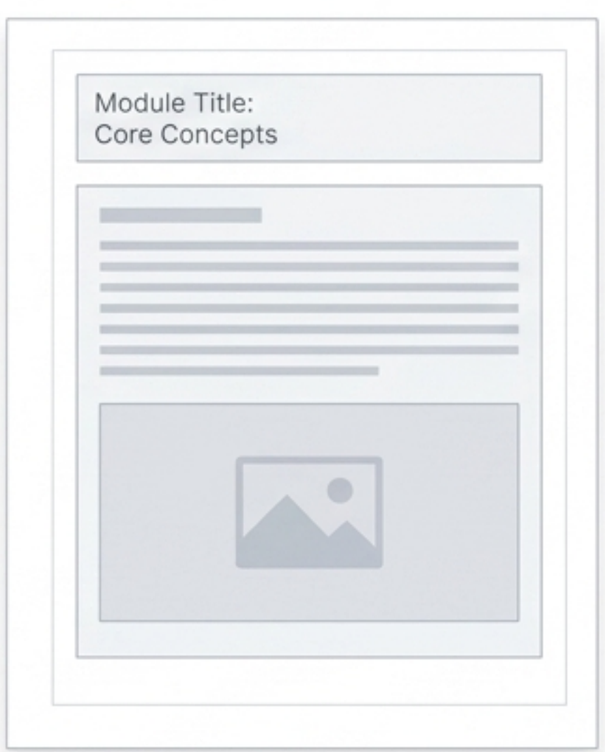

Advanced Pathways
Deeper technical study, removed from the beginner core.

Custom Templates
Frameworks for local workshops and demonstrations.

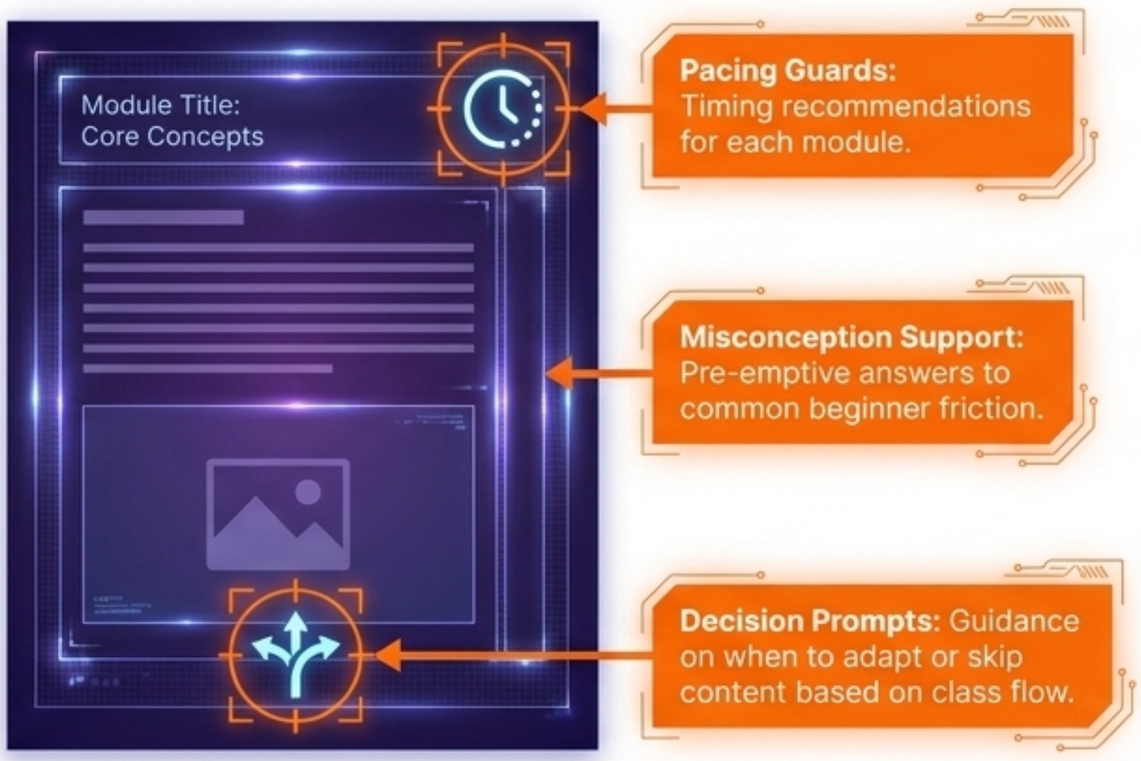

NotebookLM

A True Facilitation Engine

The Educator Guide is no longer a duplicate book.
It is a classroom operating system.

Scaling Relevance Safely

The Fixed Core (Non-Negotiable):

- Learning Objectives
- Core Competencies
- Bitcoin-only Focus

The Fluid Edge (Adaptable):

- Local Examples & Case Studies
- Classroom Structures
- Facilitation Style

NotebookLM

The Path to Release

Phase 1: Finalize Architecture & Objectives

Phase 2: Build Core Materials & Activity Bank

Phase 3: Educator Review & Field Pilots

Phase 4: October 2026 Public Launch
